

CULTURE

< PREV Caroline Wolff's California Wine...

ART

15 Highlights You Can't Miss at Art Basel in Miami Beach 2013

by Ted Loos

All of Miami turns into the world's most deluxe souk the first week of December, as leading art and design galleries display their most provocative, beautiful, and arresting wares. Most of the works at Art Basel in Miami Beach and the attendant satellite fairs are for sale, but if you're not buying you can simply consider it an over-the-top, never-ending exhibition. Because no one person can see it all, here is Vogue.com's guide to the fifteen pieces, shows, and objects not to miss this week.

3

SEEING DOUBLE

Tastemaker and New York-based dealer Dominique Lévy is hosting a mini-exhibition called "Seeing Double" at the main fair this week, matching up two living masters: John Baldessari and Jeff Koons. Both men have a way of presenting the kitschiest parts of our culture and forcing us to look at them with fresh eyes. Lévy will be presenting major works by each.

Pictured: Jeff Koons, Pail, 1986

Photo: Courtesy of Dominique Lévy

< 4 of 16 >

December 03, 2013 6:00a.m.

ADD TO FAVORITES

SHARE

PRINT

Share

Tweet 10

Pin It

SUBSCRIBE
GIVE A GIFT RENEW INTERNATIONAL

INTRODUCTORY OFFER

VOGUE

SUBSCRIBE FOR JUST $6

Subscribe with Amazon

VOGUEPEDIA
THE WORLD OF FASHION
IN VOGUE

Carven

"You can spot a Carven girl straight away: cute shirt with contrast collar, neat jacket, full skirt," a buyer for Matches, the London luxury retailer, said in 2012, "that balance between sexy and charming in a very French way."

LEARN MORE

SIGN UP
TO RECEIVE VOGUE
UPDATES

Enter email address

» SUBMIT «

CONNECT

< PREV Caroline Wolff's California Wine...